

Job Type	Job Type Definitions
Corrective Maintenance	Maintenance performed because of some unforeseen failure, replacing equipment like-for-like or with parts for which an equivalency determination has been made.
Installation/Upgrade	Work that installs new equipment (not to be confused with installation of a new like-for-like part) or an equipment upgrade.
Preventive Maintenance	This also includes predictive maintenance. Routine checks of operating systems to gauge their operability; defined maintenance actions that are performed on a recurring basis.
Repairable Spare	Repair of a spare and/or determination of the root cause of its failure. These are shop or "send out" repairs, and not repairs in place (rebuilding for return to service in the future, i.e. barcoded asset, history tracking).
Subcontract Work	Any maintenance or Installation/Upgrade activities performed by a Subcontractor.
